

Typinator 10 extends text expansion to mobile to work across multiple devices

iOS companion app delivers snippet libraries to iPhone and iPad with a redesigned interface and cloud-independent synchronization.

Perg, Austria – March 11, 2026: ergonis Software launches Typinator 10 with an iOS companion app, addressing the productivity gap created by multi-device work environments. The update enables the 100,000+ user base to access snippet libraries across Mac, iPhone, and iPad, extending the tool's daily time savings to mobile workflows. The release includes a redesigned user interface, private synchronization architecture, and marks the first public milestone of a cross-platform strategy.

Mobile access completes productivity workflow

Text expansion delivers measurable time savings, but this efficiency previously ended at the desktop. Users type the same text dozens of times daily on Mac, then manually retype identical content when working on mobile devices. Typinator 10 eliminates this constraint by synchronizing snippet libraries across devices, enabling professionals to maintain consistent productivity whether responding to emails on iPhone, drafting documents on Mac, or collaborating on iPad.

The iOS app addresses the reality of modern work: professionals switch between devices throughout the day, and productivity tools must follow. The rebuilt storage architecture supports synchronization through any kind of user-controlled infrastructure – company NAS systems, custom directories, Dropbox, iCloud – ensuring data remains under user control. This privacy-first approach differentiates Typinator as enterprises and individual users prioritize data sovereignty.

Transformation from Mac-exclusive to cross-platform

Thomas Reichenberger, CTO and son of ergonis founder Christoph Reichenberger, has driven the company's cross-platform strategy since assuming the role four years ago. Typinator 10 and its iOS companion represent the first public milestone of this transformation.

"The decision to go cross-platform is about enabling the full potential of text expansion," Reichenberger states. "Our users save time, but that benefit disappeared the moment they picked up their phone. Typinator 10 closes that gap while maintaining the fast, reliable text expansion tool, which users are used to."

The redesigned user interface addresses longstanding criticism of the previous design, streamlining navigation and integrating macOS Tahoe standards. Apple Intelligence integration enables users to create, translate, and optimize snippets directly within the application, reducing the manual effort of snippet library maintenance.

What's new in Typinator 10

- iOS companion app – Access snippet libraries on iPhone and iPad
- Redesigned UI – Modernized interface addressing user feedback
- Synchronization between Macs – independent of cloud provider, using custom directories
- Cross-platform foundation – Rebuilt storage architecture for future platform expansion
- Apple Intelligence integration – Automated snippet creation, translation, and optimization

- macOS Tahoe compatibility – Fully optimized for the latest macOS
- Simplified licensing – No license keys required, streamlined login system
- New data storage – including data migration from old set files
- Performance improvements – Faster and smoother experience
- Full changelog available here

Availability and launch offer

Typinator 10 is available as a free trial at ergonis.com/typinator. Use discount code TYPI-10-PR1-E for 50% off Advanced and Business plans through March 31, 2026.

About Typinator

Typinator is a text expansion tool for macOS and iOS, used by individuals, professionals, and enterprise teams. The software automates repetitive typing tasks with customizable snippet libraries, reducing typing time while maintaining user control over data storage and synchronization. Typinator integrates across applications for documentation, customer support, development, content creation, and communication workflows. Pricing starts at $29.99. Learn more at ergonis.com/typinator.

Media kit available here.

About ergonis

Founded in 2002, ergonis Software develops productivity tools for personal and professional workflows, including text expansion, keyboard shortcut customization, and font management solutions.

Press contact

Alice Rottmann (Head of Marketing)

Linzer Strasse 2, 4320 Perg, Austria

Email: press@ergonis.com

Web: www.ergonis.com

Media partners can request complimentary licenses.